Comedian to Host New National Radio Show Daren Streblow will dish up the laughs to America's families

Nashville TN

A lack of true family entertainment was the inspiration behind a new national radio show. Being a fan of good comedy as well as having an extensive career in radio and television broadcasting, Corey Irish of Media Outfitters began to merge the two to create a clean, family-friendly hour of entertainment. The Daren Streblow Comedy Show is the hilarious result. Beginning in November, this hour long weekly radio show hosted by veteran comedian Daren Streblow will be heard across the nation. The show will feature a variety of guest comedians including Jeff Allen, Ken Davis, and Tim Hawkins. Streblow, a featured guest on hit TV show Bananas as well as Disney cruises, will strive to be the voice of reason for fellow frustrated comics throughout each show. Friend and ventriloquist David Pendleton will frequently join Streblow across the microphone to banter about life's crazy happenings.

"The show is a great place to laugh, be encouraged, and put your troubles on the shelf," says host and co-producer Daren Streblow. He continues, "My desire for The Daren Streblow Comedy Show is to provide our audience a weekly vacation from the stresses and pressures of life -- giving them a recharge through laughter. I want our listening friends to enjoy a regular smorgasbord of laughs from some of the best comedians working today without worrying that the comedian will say something profane or crude."

"This show, technically, has great production quality that will appeal to all families. We have put forth many hours of hard work to make sure The Daren Streblow Comedy Show remains clean and fun yet surpasses the standards of the top Christian and mainstream broadcasters," says Executive Producer Corey Irish.
